

- [b] encodes the branch operator, [r] encodes the ring operator
- the number after the operator determines its range
- branches point forward, rings backwards
- operators refer to the subchain of the last atom before the operator
- subchains are skipped if completely enclosed by the operator
- ...so that the number after the operator always corresponds to the number of atoms in the encoded substructure :)

